Endowing the Wiley Prize in Biomedical Sciences

HOMEABOUT USTHE WILEY FOUNDATION JURYPAST WINNERSNOMINATEWEBINARS

Because of delays in awarding the 2020 Wiley Prize due to pandemic considerations, the nomination period for the next Wiley Prize has been extended until September 30, 2021. Any submissions that have been made thus far will be automatically transferred to the September 30, 2021 nomination group.

Nominate

The Wiley Prize in Biomedical Sciences is intended to recognize breakthrough research in pure or applied life science research that is distinguished by its excellence, originality, and impact on our understanding of biological systems and processes. The award may recognize a specific contribution or series of contributions that demonstrate the nominee's significant leadership in the development of research concepts or their clinical application. Particular emphasis will be placed on research which champions novel approaches and challenges accepted thinking in the biomedical sciences.

The Wiley Foundation invites and encourages the nomination of exceptional scientists or research teams whose research has set the standard for excellence.

The evaluations of each nominee will depend on the information provided in the nomination packages. Therefore it is important that the nominations be as complete, current, and accurate as possible. Nominations that are missing any of the requested information or do not follow the guidelines below will not be considered.

Deadline for submission of nominations: September 30 of the current year
The nomination should be submitted by someone other than the nominee.
More than one nomination can be made from the same organization.
International nominations are encouraged.
