

Lifelong Fellowship

Overview

Becoming an Atlantic Fellow for Equity in Brain Health at GBHI doesn't end on completion of the program. In fact, our fellows become part of a lifelong engaged community which extends and amplifies the impact of the fellowship.

Beyond graduation, Atlantic Fellows return to local and other communities to implement lasting change. We expect fellows will be proactive in using knowledge, creativity, and resources of their communities—and the global community of Atlantic Fellows—to engage with target audiences and make great strides to reduce the scale and impact of dementia.

“My experience as an Atlantic Fellow for Equity in Brain Health has been a game-changer. I have gained access to a global community of like-minded professionals, forged meaningful friendships all around the world, and gained top-notch science and clinical knowledge that will truly care.”

— Atlantic Fellow for Equity in Brain Health

GBHI is committed to ongoing and supporting this lifelong fellowship community, including in-person and virtual events, information resources, funding opportunities, monthly community calls, and opportunities for collaborative projects.

Atlantic Fellows are also members of a global community of seven global, interconnected Atlantic Fellows Programs, a network of global leaders who collaborate to advance equity, opportunity and human dignity.

A large group of approximately 50 diverse professionals, including men and women of various ages and ethnicities, are posed on a wide staircase in a modern building. They are dressed in business casual attire, smiling at the camera. The background features a large, colorful abstract painting on the wall and a wooden paneling. The overall atmosphere is professional and collaborative.
